Highly figured and well-matched butt stocks have semi-pistol grips with rounded knobs and checkered butts, the stock shape at the head, matching the rounded shape of the action. Splinter forends have Anson push rod releases.

Chopper lump barrels are 29" in length and choked Cylinder and .003" in gun 336-07 and .003" in both barrels of gun 337-07. Southgate type ejectors and smooth, swamped game ribs on both sets of barrels.

Guns are consecutively serially numbered and near identical in configuration, but the guns are not numbered "1" and "2" like a true pair. Both guns remain excellent overall with some handling marks on #336-07. Gun 337-07 is near perfect.

Guns are being sold as a pair and are complete in a leather, two-gun motor case.
